ABOUT US

Trinity Tactical (TRINITY PLUS ONE DESIGN) has been working on gym design for over 15 years, specializing in providing solutions for the reality-based training industry.

We have collaborated with gym owners, customizing their gym design to ensure that design and functionality matches the training requirements.

Our specialty in providing innovative solutions for reality-based training has led us to the creation of environmental training furniture and props for scenario training spaces.

One of our key principles is that environmental furniture needs to be adaptable. Too often we see the creation of items limited to a singular purpose. From our experience partnering with Training Providers, training appliances, furniture and props are better suited to be adaptable and versatile.

By prioritizing adaptability and versatility, we allow Training Providers the ability to:

- Reduce cost in equipment
- Save space on equipment
- Create more adaptable environments
- Greater variation in scenario training options

IMPORTANCE OF TRAINING FURNITURE

Using soft training furniture in reality-based self-defense scenarios is crucial for two main reasons:

Safety and Realism.

Unlike traditional training equipment, soft furniture reduces the risk of injury during practice and training sessions, allowing participants to operate with full intensity without fear of harm.

These soft materials simulate real-world environments, such as hospitality, residential or open spaces occupied by objects , providing a more authentic training experience.

By incorporating soft training furniture, practitioners can develop practical skills that are effective and applicable in realistic self-defense situations and environments.

Based on our experiences, the added value and benefit to the training experiences for your practitioners significantly outweighs the equipment costs. By providing these furniture options, you are investing in the training for your practitioners and their future success.

Take your training to the next level by incorporating our furniture systems.
